

BURIED SIXTY FEET, HE SAYS HE'S WELL

Entombed Miner Eats and Talks Through Pipe While
Rescuers Tunnel.

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Dec. 14.—L. B. Hicks, who is entombed in a mine, is alive and well, talks hopefully of his rescue and takes his food through sixty feet of pipe every three hours.

Through the pipe yesterday he gave a detailed description of how he is situated. He is lying on his side, stretched out besides a car and almost half the wheels. When he found himself in darkness and pinioned, he found a few matches in his clothes. With these he learned that a big timber rests on the car and on top of the timber are boulders.

One side of his face is close to the ground and the pipe, following the rail, passes directly to him. The pipe was perforated before it was sunk into the mine and through the perforation the entombed man gets his food.

The driving of the pipe through sixty feet of earth was difficult. It was supplied with a steel point, and forced downward just beneath the frame of a track on which Hicks had been making signals.

A large force of men is working to reach the imprisoned miner. Last night they had forty feet yet to go. It is hoped to rescue him Sunday night. The most calculations have been made and the tunnel should exactly reach Hicks. Hicks says he is not suffering from cold. He declares he had a good sleep last night, although nearly sixty feet of earth, rock and timber are on top of him.

Havana Stockholders Anxious.

The directors of the Havana Electric Railway Company will hold a meeting to-day at No. 53 Broadway, which may prove stormy. A majority of the stock is held in Havana, where there is dissatisfaction with the management. They have sent a cablegram to Manager Greenwood in this city demanding a plan and calling attention to the fact that Havana capital owns control of the company.

Store Will Be Open Saturday Evening And Every Week-Day Evening Thereafter Until Xmas.

We realize and appreciate that in a great city of four and one-half millions there are thousands and thousands of people who cannot get to this store during the day, who would like to see the decorations, enjoy the Holiday festivities and buy their Christmas gifts. If we were to consult our personal feelings alone—and those of our five thousand co-workers—this store would be closed evenings. It is not ours, however, but Y-O-U-R-S—and as such we MUST provide every facility for your comfort and convenience. Hence, the Simpson Crawford Store will remain open evenings from now until Christmas—closing Christmas Eve, however, at 7 o'clock. You can make it easy for our willing workers—and for yourselves (as far as possible)—by shopping early in the day and by taking small parcels with you.

The BEST Low-priced Piano Made

The J. C. Campbell, at $190 $5 Cash, and $5 a Month

HERE is an instrument that has won the praise of thousands of music teachers, whose pupils have bought it. It possesses qualities that are very rare in pianos at low prices. It is truly artistic in TONE, elastic and responsive in action, is built for long service, and is refined and artistic in its architecture.

You have probably examined other low-priced pianos built to appeal to the untrained eye—clumsy and gaudy in architecture—built BIG and awkward, in order to give a deceptive effect, and enable the dealer to call the piano he sells for $250 worth $500.

There is not a piano so called sold for $250 that meets the artistic qualities of the J. C. Campbell.

The case of the J. C. Campbell is as refined as those of instrument costing double. It never looks out of place anywhere—either in the simply furnished home, or the most elaborate surroundings.

Every dollar of the price buys VALUE. New York homes have no waste space for deceptive woodwork, and the J. C. Campbell meets the requirements exactly.

It is a piano that pleases the critical ear—that properly educates the student, and that will stand the usage that hard daily practice will bring.

The production of the J. C. Campbell Piano at the low price of $190 was one of the great achievements of the Wanamaker Piano business. It means that those who can pay only a moderate price, and those who would not want to put an elegant instrument at the service of the young folks, may still supply them with a piano of excellent quality at extremely low cost.

Don't Decide a Purchase Elsewhere Until You Have Seen the J. C. Campbell

Of course there are many other pianos here to see, as well—the best instruments on the market at their prices—and ALL SOLD NOW AT SPECIALLY EASY CHRISTMAS TERMS. Come in and see, at least.
